

How can clinicians be motivated and prepared to provide better care for people with intellectual and/or developmental disabilities (IDD)?

What is it?

- Focus group discussions hosted by the ABC3 team on how to best motivate and prepare clinicians to serve people with IDD.

Who is invited?

- General clinicians with background experience as physicians, nurse practitioners, dentists, and physician associates.
- We welcome all communication preferences.

How can I be involved?

- Attend a 90-minute focus group over Zoom in February.
- There will be three sets of focus groups:
 - Clinicians with IDD: February 8
 - Generalists with no formal training to serve people with IDD: February 13
 - Clinicians of color: February 21
- Meetings will be held at 5pm and 8pm EST.

Payment and registration:

- Participants will be paid $150 (requires the completion of a W-9 form).
- Register here: ABC3 Registration Form \(https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/RBKD5GW\)
- If you have any questions, email: \(mbahr@ie-care.org\).

The importance:

- Most medical students, trainees, and practitioners are not prepared to treat people with IDD.
- Eight out of ten graduating medical students receive no IDD-specific education or training.
- For the 10-16 million people with IDD, this lack of training causes gaps in services, high rates of preventable conditions, and reduced life expectancy.

About ABC3:

- ABC3 is an action collaborative aiming to scale strategies for engaging, preparing, and supporting clinicians to provide better care for people with IDD.
- The ABC3 team is Mai Pham, Heather Gomez-Bendaña, Madelyn Bahr & Miriam Edelman.
- The ABC3 coalition includes national professional societies, accrediting bodies, IDD clinical and research organizations, and IDD self-advocates.
